

Eros Resources Corp.. Provides an Update on its Bell Mountain Gold-Silver Project

Vancouver BC, February 6, 2020 - Eros Resources Corp. (TSX-V: “ERC” “Eros” or the “Company”) is pleased to report its progress on the Bell Mountain Gold-Silver Property “Bell Mountain”, near Fallon, Nevada. In the fourth quarter of 2018, Eros received notice that the Bell Mountain mining claims were no longer subject to a moratorium from the Department of the Navy (the “Navy”); the Company has been aggressively pursuing the permitting of Bell.

PRELIMINARY ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT COMPLETED

Eros reports that the Preliminary Environmental Assessment of Bell Mountain has now been completed and entered its 30 day public comment period on January 31, 2020. Once the public comment period is complete (March 2, 2020), the Bureau of Land Management (BLM), Eros and key consultants Stantec Consulting Services and Welsh Hagen Associates will address any and all comments on the Environmental Assessment..

Eros anticipates receiving a “Finding of No Significant Impact” (FONSI) for the Bell Mountain Gold-Silver Project in 2020 with approval of the Environmental Assessment. Eros also expects to have various mine operating permits well advanced in 2020.

Mr. Ron Netolitzky, President & CEO of Eros, states “We are very pleased with the progress we are making in the permitting process. Given the delays that the Company faced when the Navy proposed to expropriate the property, the speed with which we have advanced through the permitting process has been key to ensuring the success of Bell Mountain. Eros wishes to thank our technical team in Nevada, along with our consultants, for their tireless efforts in this process.”

Mr. Netolitzky further states, “As a company, Eros is excited about Bell Mountain. It boasts robust economics. The Company firmly believes that the scale of Bell Mountain can be significantly increased with additional exploration work on the property in the near term. Such work was purposely ceased during the time that the status of the property was in question, based on the the plans of the Navy. With that issue in the past, and once permitting is substantially complete, exploration at Bell Mountain will commence again with a view to increasing scale”.
